I Am God's Lamp

My lamp's aglow
For Thee, O God,
Aglow with love like Thine;
My lamp is Thy Possession so
For Thee I'll ever shine.

Once, bending low
From heav'nly courts,
You set my lamp ablaze;
And Thou, the Brightly burning Lamp,
Hast touched my living ways.

O God, grant Thy Rekindling light
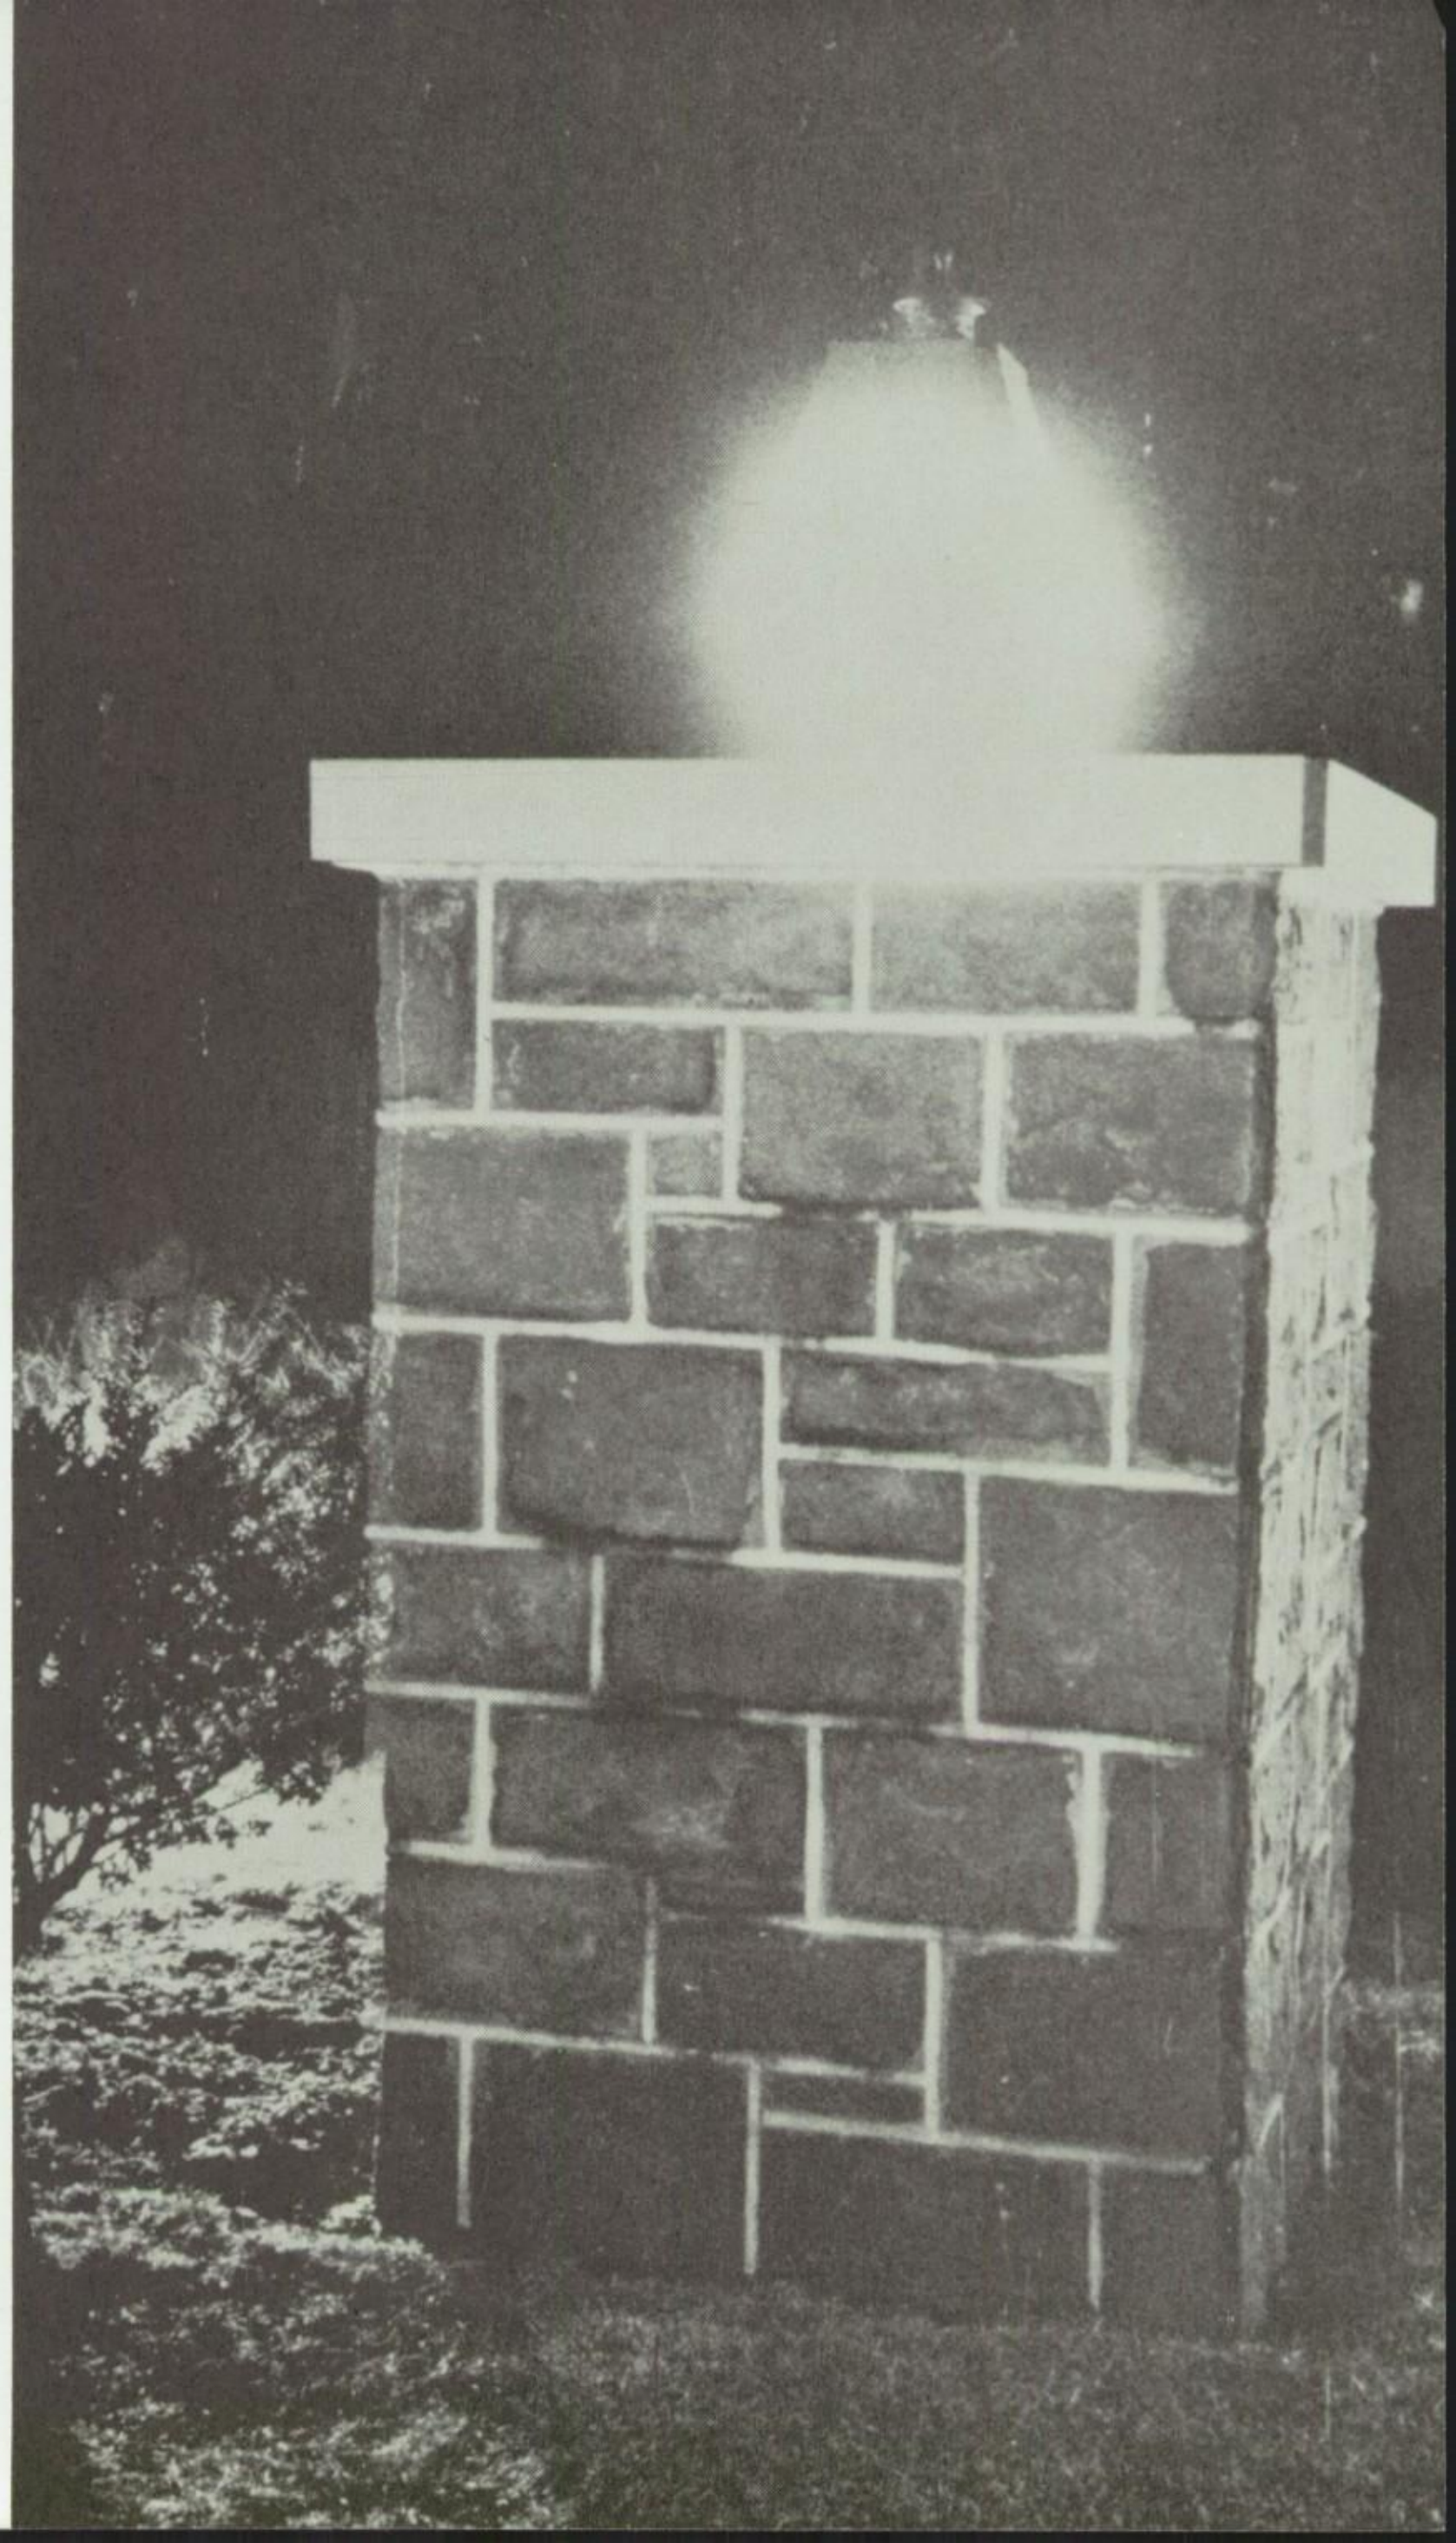
To keep from burning low;
My flame, alone,
Starts flickering,
With Thine, it stays aglow.



IN DEDICATION

Men have touched the flame of youth with theirs and set them burning bright;
and men, with lamps aglow, have known concern and guided youth to keep them burning.

But especially to you, Brother H. Raymond Charles, whose influence has reached out to us,
do we owe much.
We admire you for the efficiency with which you handle your many duties and fulfill them.
In church periodicals, we have recognized your name and read of your many activities with our mission program.

We have watched you at work in the classroom, carefully chalking out notes on the chalkboard.
You understood that youth is a time of decisions, of question marks, uncertainties, of character-building.
Together, we explored the pages of our textbook, the Bible, discussing its implications for us, in today's world.
You directed us in thought-provoking discussions, erasing many doubts from our minds, developing convictions.

Brother H. Raymond Charles, for the contribution you are making to the church of today and of tomorrow, we, the class of 1965,
dedicate our LAUREL WREATH to you.

H. Raymond Charles

We knew each one as a merchant of facts, trailblazer, statistician, trustworthy friend,
as well as a teacher.
They have shown a close concern for us—
our problems.
Out of their mature, experienced lives,
they sought to guide us.
New rays of greater knowledge were shed,
of more Christlike attitudes, of purpose in life.

SCHOOL BOARD

Over the past years, the school board has purchased eighty-seven acres of campus. They appoint our faculty, approve school policies, discuss problems. We have watched one of their dreams become a reality in brick and steel—the new Classroom Building. May we as students wisely use our time, our talents, our training, to repay these men for their services.

EXECUTIVE AND RELIGIOUS WELFARE COMMITTEES: sitting: Ray Yost, treasurer; Clarence Rutt, secretary; James Hess, chairman; standing: Leroy Stoltzfus, David Thomas, Lloyd Eby, vice-chairman. Not pictured: Clair Eby.

PHOEBE SAUDER DOES some "mental gymnastics" in an "icebreaker" at the freshman social.

STEADY NOW! Remember what happened last time.

HOUSECLEANING time.

THANK GOODNESS, it's Friday!

"WE TRIED THESE new exercises today."

CAMERA shy.

"YOU'RE KIDDING! What happened then?"

"THAT'S THE HONOR ROLL. No, I didn't make it."

Twelve years, it took, to obtain our diploma, a passport in life.
Twelve years—and each directed by unexpected detours, crossroad decisions,
and the Bible, our road map.
A destination—and yet, ahead stretch many miles of life.
New rays of self-consecration were shed,
of reliance upon our road map,
of trust in our Guide.

We accepted the challenge to study,
to pioneer into the unknown, to push back the frontier of ignorance.
As fortune hunters, we eagerly dug for nuggets of knowledge.
We struggled with projects, themes, daily assignments.
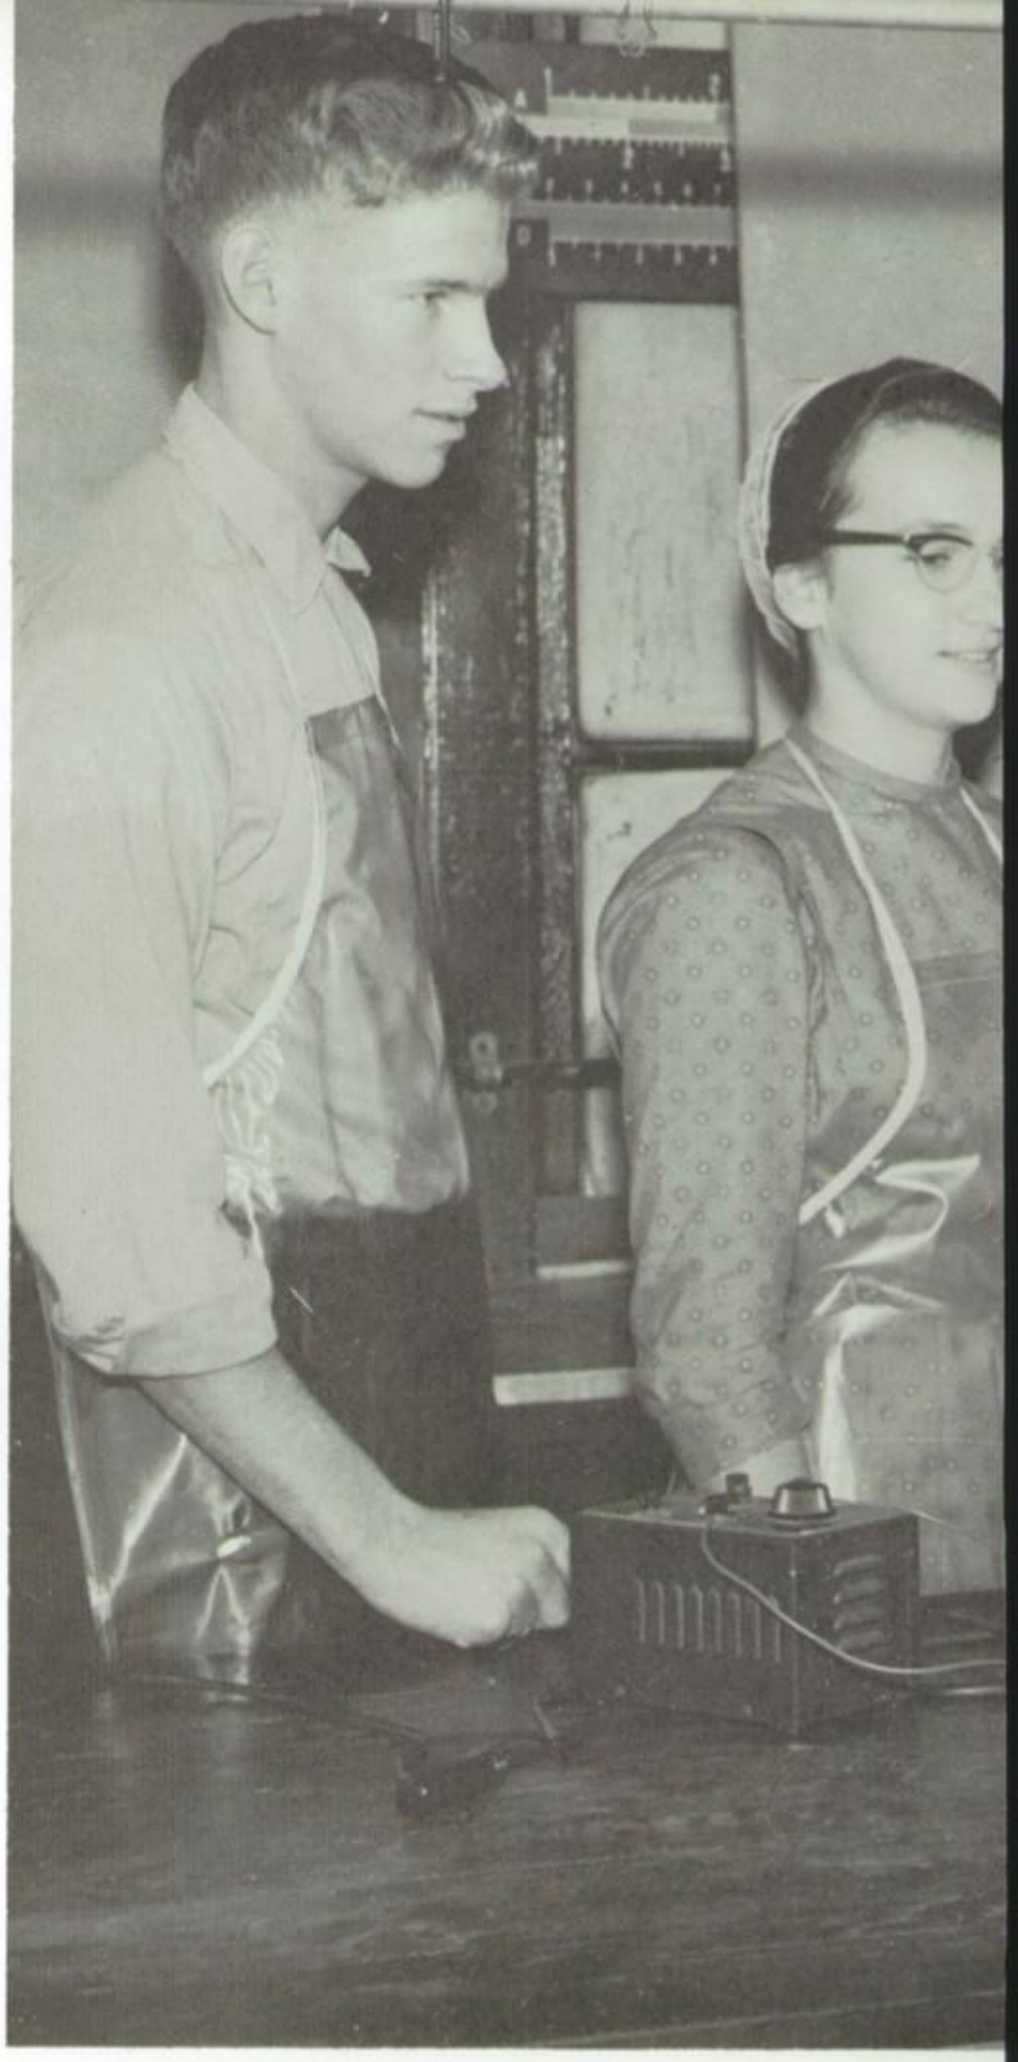
New rays of concentration were shed,
of a firm foundation of wisdom,
of more diligent work.



ADVENTURING

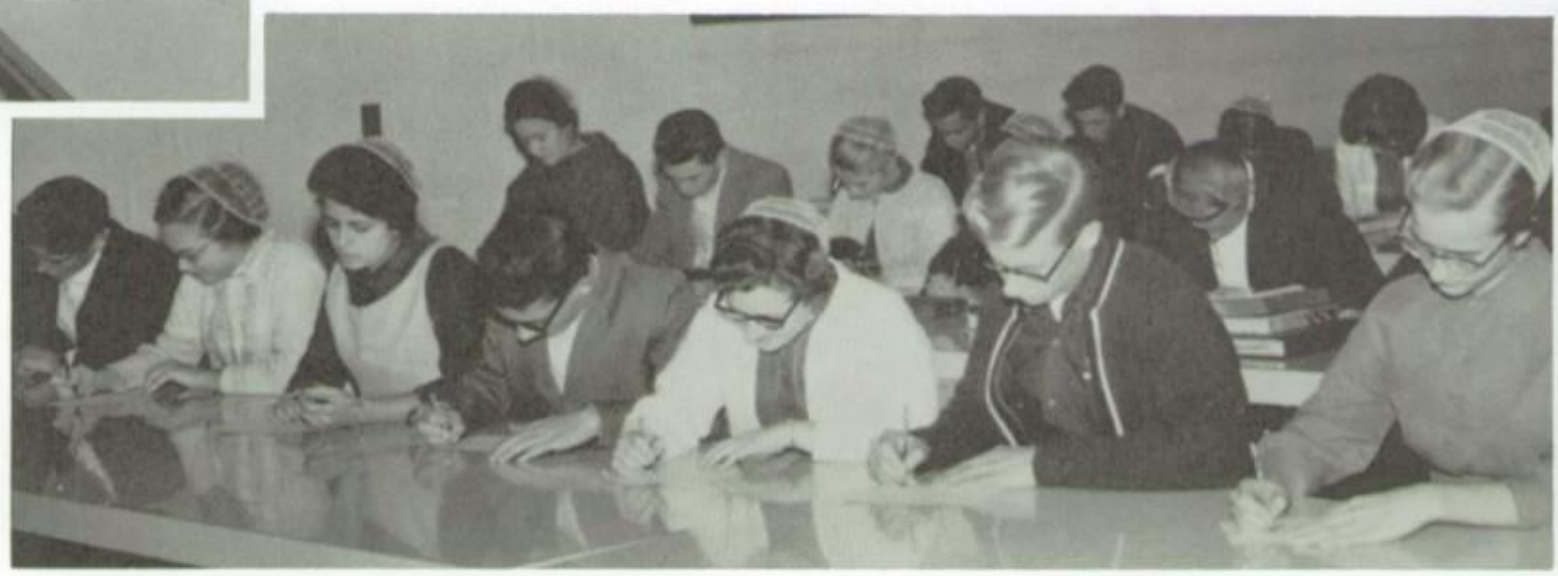
into the Unknown

IN ENGLISH IV, Marian Miller shows a literary masterpiece to Sister Wenger.

J. PAUL SAUDER visited English III classes one day. He shared original poetry.

CORRECTING TESTS sometimes reveals humorous answer, Sister Mohler finds.

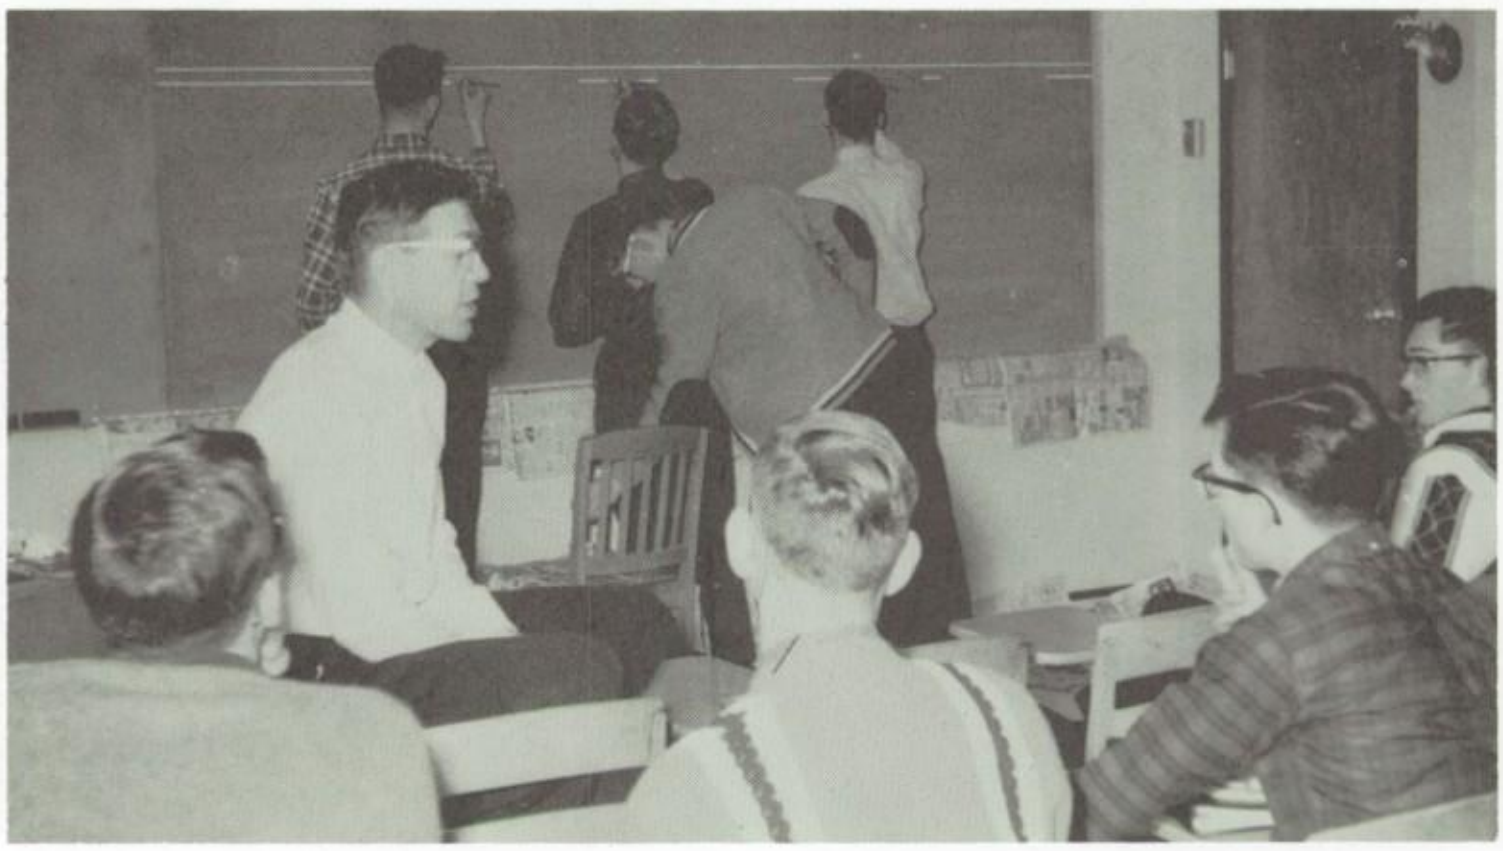
SOPHOMORES CONCENTRATE on an English II test.



"YOUR BOWL SHOULD BE ROUNDED more on this side," Brother Smeltz advises as he examines Rhoda Stoltzfus' craft project.

KENNETH FREY CUTS a board for use in a shop project.

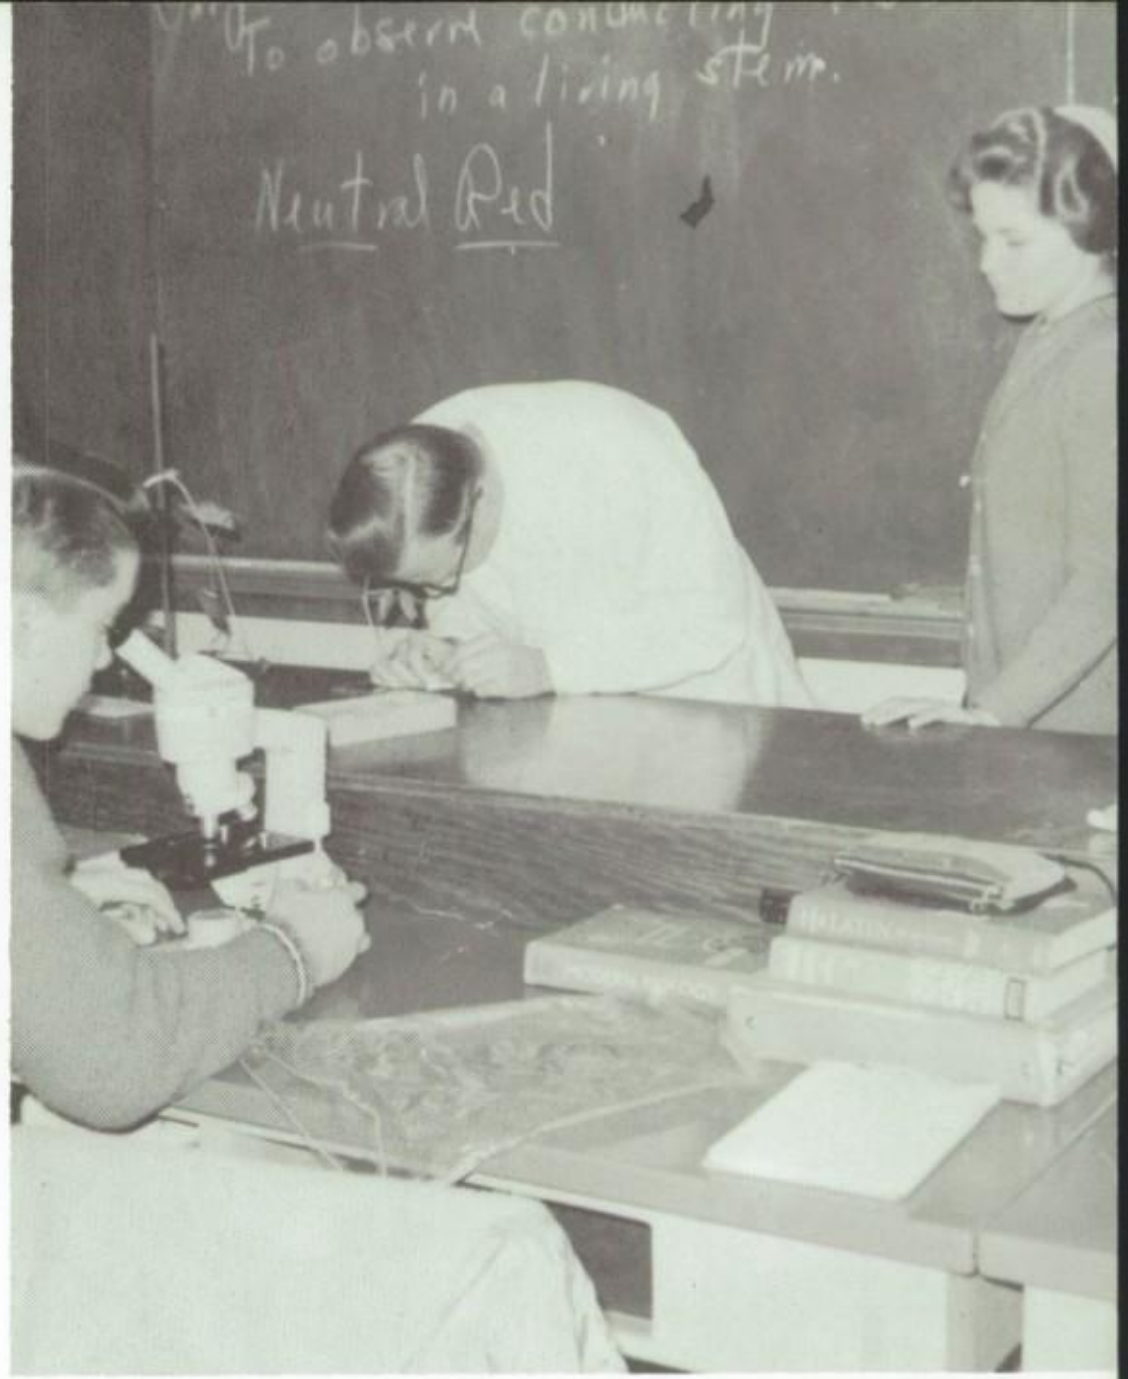
ARNOLD MOSHIER SUPERVISES Music II students in painting staffs on the new chalkboard.



ESTHER BONTRAGER and Phyllis Martin increase their wardrobes in sewing class.

TAKING CARE to measure accurately, Delmar Sauder works on a mechanical drawing assignment.

PERSONAL EVANGELISM STUDENTS spend a day witnessing in New York City. Sampling new dishes in Chinatown was part of their orientation.



GLENN GARMAN FOCUSES the microscope in biology class.

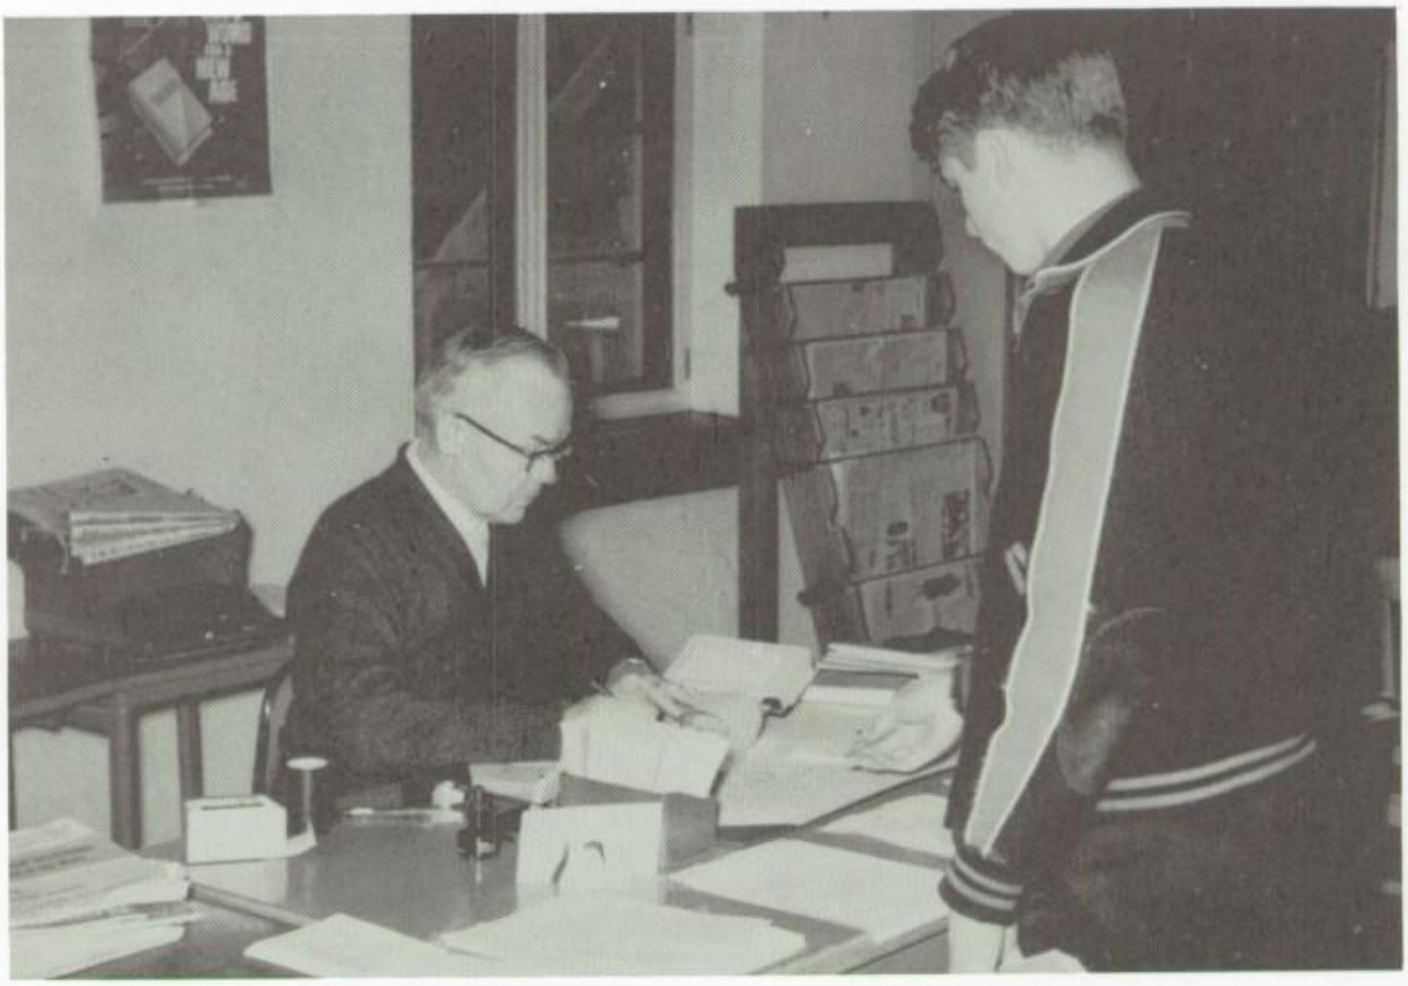
DONALD SAUDER weighs a portion of sulfur in chemistry lab.

NOTEBOOKS ARE CLOSED, desks are cleared, and the general science test begins.

JOHN LAPP LECTURES the World History students on the subject, "The Anabaptist Awakening."

CIVICS STUDENTS REVIEW geographical features of our state. Several projects can be seen on the desk.

P.O.D. PANELS ranged from juvenile delinquency to marriage.



"I'D LIKE TO RENEW my book another week."

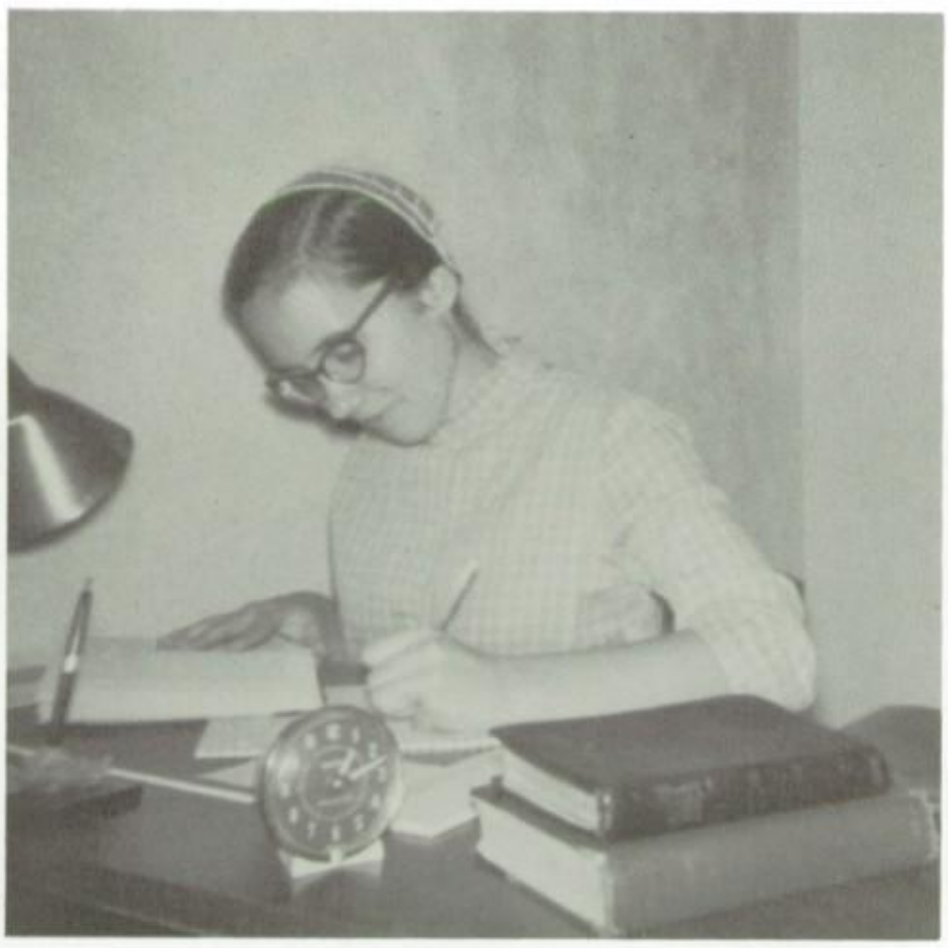
". . . AND THIS is the oil filter," Brother Keener explains to Esther Horst.

"NO, THESE AREN'T ALL OURS," David Keener and Ray Landis say.

SCHOOL'S OVER for another day. I thought the bell would never ring!"

ONE DAY A PLASTIC DEMONSTRATION WAS PLANNED for us. We watched Col. Sandoe ignite pieces of plastic.

STUDYING REQUIRED REAL CONCENTRATION—sometimes several coats of glue applied to the chair would have been advisable.



WE WERE EAGER to step inside the new Classroom Building.

THE HISTORIC MOMENT CAME—the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

THE DOORS WERE SWUNG OPEN for us to begin our tour.

We discovered, developed, and dedicated the special talents that God entrusted to us.
We learned to systematize, to budget the jet-propelled time.
Through committee meetings, sports events,
and dorm societies,
we encouraged these traits.
New rays of our responsibility were shed,
of a proper sense of values,
of self-discipline.

Launching with a Living Christ

Jewel Wenger

Margaret Wenger

1. Through the wide oceans of crime and of care, O'er the vast mount-ains of sin.
2. Christ has been with us thus far in our lives. He will stay near us 'til death.
3. Long a-go Christ by the Sea Gal-i-lee Told them to "Launch to the deep."

Up from the val-leys of deep-est des-pair We launch the wan-d'r to win.
Nail scarred, His hand points thru joy or through strife, A liv-ing Christ guides in life's quest.
Now as He asks us to launch with Him, we a fut-ure with Him now do seek.

Chorus

We launch with a Liv-ing Christ to-day, Though strewn with thun-der

We launch

And blocked clouds the way. A ha-zy fu-ture lies a-head, but I'll be with you

He has said.

Coda

We launch with a Liv-ing Christ!

Launching with a Living Christ

Launch with us in our launching out
From L.M.S., O Christ;
We daily need a heav'nly Guide
In whom we may confide.
Tho' here one hundred eighty-nine unknown futures part,
Yet through the years, in Thee, our class will still be one in heart.

We're in our sunrise years—the sky
Is splashed with rainbow shades; Beneath stretch sweeping valleys where Life's winding path is laid.
Majestic mountains tower near; steep heights in life to climb.
O Christ, with Thee alone, one step we'll conquer at a time.

Within our hearts instill Thy love,
Like spilling waterfalls.
O touch our self-tuned ears to catch
The travelers' constant calls.
Men long to launch their lives again, in life contentment find;
O Christ, may we who now launch out, to Thee direct mankind.

Our flaming hearts can ne'er restore
The debt in life we owe;
Lord, may our lives be blazing lamps
To burn for Thee, to glow.
The talents you've entrusted us, our all, O Christ, possess.
We're launching with a living Christ—life's secret to success.

—Lois Weber.

We turned to God, the Master Teacher, as we sought tuition in the school of life.
With Him, we discussed our successes,
our failures,
our study of His Textbook.
During chapel, prayer cells, quiet time,
we learned new lessons.
New rays of worthier ideals were shed,
of a longing for His nearness, of a surrendered will.

Ye Are the Light of the World

Life's task is this—
To render light
And set more lamps aglow.
"Ye are the light
Of this dark world,"
Christ charged, once long ago.

There are some lamps
Which I alone
Can touch and light from mine.
Thou art entrusting
Them to me,
For Thee, O God, I'll shine.

The staff of the 1965 LAUREL WREATH wishes to express deep appreciation to those who have made this yearbook a success. We especially say thank you to:

Martha Jane Lutz
and Marian Longenecker, Advisers, who capably guided us in our decisions.

Elton Moshier for campus shots, especially the splendid shot of the glowing lamp.

Mr. Paul Peel of Peel's Studio in Lancaster for fine photography.

National Publishing House of Philadelphia for skill in cover designing.

Mennonite Publishing House for making our dream a reality in photographs and print.

Student salesmen and seniors who sold LAUREL WREATHS and helped compile senior descriptions.
